

We believe in the original concept of charter schools as laboratories of innovation. The Learning Works mission is to both learn about how to work with dropouts, our target population, but also to collect and analyze data about the approaches we try. We disseminate this information to the broader community including practitioners interested in trying new ways to educate students challenged by poverty and the many issues that result from it. We try new things, we evaluate and improve upon them and we want others to know about what we have learned. We are a learning laboratory and are committed to disseminating our approaches to others.

Join us for a Learning Lab

Community School: Partnership Approach

February 5, 2015
90 N. Daisy Ave.
Pasadena, CA 91107

Tour 10:30 a.m.

Presentation/Discussion 11 a.m.

Lunch will be served at 12 p.m. (no cost)

Continued discussion & networking

Come hear about our successful partnerships with: Homeboy Industries, Armory Center for the Arts, Mother's Club, Pasadena Public Health Department., Flintridge Center, Pasadena Mental Health, All Saints Church, Grandma's On the Go (CVUMC), Foster Care Project, Pasadena Unified School District

Everyone is invited—

Please attend and share this invitation with others

◆ Community members ◆ Educators ◆ Parents

RSVP: <http://learningworkscharterschool.eventbrite.com> or call Ana Treto at (626) 564-9890